PRESS RELEASE

12th June 2020

Lighting experts, Collier Webb add to their Alabaster wall light collection

Collier Webb are designers and makers of bespoke lighting for the world's finest interior designers and the most luxurious destinations.

Following the success of The Alabaster Range, launched in 2019, Collier Webb introduce a new addition to the collection, available from 23rd June. The Alabaster Delta is a natural, organic take on the brand's existing, Art Deco inspired wall light.

The Delta wall light consists of a geometric brass frame, previously encasing frosted glass facets, now housing three pieces of the finest Spanish Alabaster. A single LED light source is diffused through the translucent Alabaster panels creating a soft, atmospheric glow. The natural properties of Alabaster determine the subtly unique look of each light.

"The contrast of bold, geometric lines and the stone's organic pattern is really special. We always strive to create lighting that enhances a space rather than merely blend in, this particular piece definitely achieves that." – Danielle Collier, Sales and Business Development Director

Handcrafted to order at the brand's South Coast Foundry, the Alabaster Delta will be available in any of Collier Webb's metal finishes and can be specified for bathroom use.

The Alabaster Delta will be on display at Collier Webb's Pimlico Road and Design Centre, Chelsea Harbour showrooms, and also available through their international agents.
